Health Insurance Requirement for International Fellows

As an exchange visitor in the United States, under a rule effective September 1, 1994, you must carry health insurance for yourself and your J2 dependents for the full duration of your J program.

For more information on these requirements, please visit the Stanford University Bechtel International Center's User Guide for J1 Exchange Visitors at:

https://bechtel.stanford.edu/coming-stanford/health-insurance

Please read the "Insurance Requirements" section for J-1 Visitors to Stanford University. Keep in mind that CASBS fellows are considered visiting scholars, not Stanford employees, postdoctoral students, or registered postdoctoral fellows as referred to in the guide.

If you have any problems accessing Stanford's website or the medical insurance information, please e-mail Amanda Edwards (amedward@stanford.edu). The Bechtel International Center website can also give you access to other helpful information and resources.
